"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

PREFACE

IT HAS BEEN MY PLEASURE to correspond with hundreds of families in America bearing the sur-name Bradford. There is only one, however, with whom I have become personally acquainted.

In the Summer of the year 1946 I made a visit to Boston to discuss the possibility of publishing a history of the Bradford family along the lines of my earlier work for the descendants of Governor John Winthrop.

I visited Mrs. Edward H. Bradford at the Bradford farm in Marshfield and there had tea with several members of her immediate family. Mrs. Bradford, the former Miss Edith Fiske, named her eldest son ROBERT FISKE.

At the time of my visit "Bob" was on tour with his wife stumping the state for the office of Governor. They visited each of the 312 towns and thirty nine cities.

In one small place in the Berkshires an octogenarian told Mr. Bradford "Young feller, you're the first candidate for anything but a selectman that has been in this town hall since 1898 - and I was here to greet the last one."

In Provincetown, at the tip of Cape Cod, he set out at 5 a.m. on a deep-sea fishing trip in the dragger "CLARA M." to learn, first hand, about some of the complaints and problems of that very important industry - for cod-fish cakes, by Gorton, etc., are still widely eaten in the Bay State.

Mr. Bradford had first come to the notice of the public as a hard fighting district attorney for Middlesex County in 1938. Six years later he was elected Lt. -Governor of Massachusetts.

It is typical of this family that before he left home, January 2, 1947, to be sworn in as governor of over 4,000,000 persons (equal to the population of England at the time of the Mayflower) he and his elder son set to with snow shovels to clear the sidewalks of his pretty home in Cambridge.

The following November this new Governor Bradford issued a Thanksgiving Proclamation just 326 years after the other Governor Bradford issued the first one. The difference was that the very first one was for three days feasting.

The Honorable R. F. Bradford has a family of two daughters, one married, and two young sons.

His father, Dr. Edward Hickling Bradford, who died in 1926, was a famous surgeon and for many years Dean of the Harvard Medical School. Dr. Bradford was a pioneer in orthopedic surgery, developing a great new science for the relief of suffering humanity. He sponsored much medical relief among the poor and unfortunate, particularly in respect to crippled children. The medical books he wrote are well known today as far away as Australia.

When the Doctor's youngest son, himself a surgeon, was in the army service in the Pacific he met other doctors who knew of his father's work in far off Boston.

The second son of the Dean, Edward Hickling Bradford, Jr., had a most extended and useful career in Europe and Africa as detailed elsewhere herein. Colonel Bradford's sister teaches school in Cambridge.

The two younger sons are twins, Junior having been born twenty minutes before C. H.

To take tea at the home of Mrs. E. H. Bradford is a most pleasing event. Although there are doubtless servants, they are not in evidence. Mrs. Bradford pours, while her daughter serves and the spritely granddaughter passes around the little square cakes.

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

YORKSHIRE YEOMAN

SOME THIRTY-TWO YEARS before the discovery of America there was born in the town of Bentley, parish of Arksey, Yorkshire, England, a child christened PETER BRADFORD.

He was the earliest ancestor of Governor William Bradford that we can find.

Yorkshire is in the Northern part of England, nearer the Scottish border than it is to London.

Peter Bradford had ten children and lived to the good old age of 82 years.

His third son, Robert - great grandfather of the Governor, was of Wellingly, parish of Tickhill, Yorkshire, lived to the age of 66 and had nine children. Robert's father bequeathed him 13 shillings, four pence, and to each of Robert's children one ewe lamb.

Robert's eldest child was William of Austerfield, Yorkshire, who was taxed in 1575 on land of an annual income of 20 shillings. This William had two sons, William, Jr., the governor's father, who died when his son was about a year old, and Robert II, uncle of the governor, to whom he acted as foster father.

All these Englishmen were yeoman farmers who apparently never journeyed beyond the confines of County York.

WILLIAM BRADFORD, future Governor, was baptised on March 19, (or 6), 1589, by Reverend Henry Fletcher, at St. Helen's Church in Austerfield. We show views of the church and the house in which he lived, photographed in the year 1930.

Governor William Bradford had no brothers and his two sisters died young.

At eighteen years of age he attempted to leave England for Holland, but was arrested and jailed in Boston, England. A later attempt at escape was successful and he lived for some ten years in Holland, becoming a silk dyer, fustian worker and a citizen of Leyden. There he married and there their first child was born.

The next chapter in his life started with his momentous boarding of the MAYFLOWER.

Today the ribs of that famous little ship are in use to support the roof of a Quaker meeting house in England.

John Bradford of Peoria, Illinois, has the Governor's baptismal robe handed down from father to son.

Students of English family history desiring to learn of the Bradfords of Yorkshire in greater detail, particularly information on the collateral lines from the progenitor, Peter, are referred to The New England Historic Genealogical Register, Volumes 83 and 84, wherein Mr. William Bradford Browne of North Adams, Massachusetts, in the years 1929 and 1930, recorded the results of his extensive research into the subject.

THE PATH BY THE BROOK SIDE

How did this yeoman farmer's son acquire his wide learning?

About two and a half miles from his home in Austerfield lies the village of Scrooby, where dwelt William Brewster, the Elder of the Separatists Church.

A path along the meadows beside the river Idle connected the two places and the youth, William Bradford, often followed it to visit at Scrooby Manor House. He found in the learned man not only religious sympathy but also secular instruction. The later governor, who had a fondness for history and antiquities must have enjoyed roaming over Scrooby Palace in its decaying grandeur, especially with Elder Brewster as guide.

He learned to read Latin and Greek and in his "Historie of Plimouth Plantation," years later, he wrote: "I have had a longing desire to see with my own eyes something of that ancient language and holy tongue (Hebrew) in which the law and oracles of God are written, and in which God and Angels spoke to the holy pattriarks of old time and what names were given to things from the creation."

Regarding his history it is written: "There is no other document upon New England history that can take precedence of this, either in time or authority. Governor Bradford wrote of events that had passed under his own eye, and that had been shaped by his own hand, and he had every qualification of a trustworthy narrator.' His mind was placid, grave, well poised; he was a student of many books and of many languages (Dutch, French, Latin, Greek and Hebrew) and being thus developed by letters and by experience, he was able to tell well the truth of history as it had unfolded itself during his own strenuous and benignant career." Tyler.

This famous manuscript has had many adventures in the last three centuries.

It was stolen from the home of a descendant when the British evacuated Boston in 1776 and was given up for lost. The red coated thief, however, had handed it over to the Fulham Library in England, and when discovered over a century later copies were published in America.

It tells the Mayflower story and of the life of the Pilgrim Fathers until the death of their governor.

It has genealogical significance in that it records the list of the 102 passengers on the Mayflower, as to their date of death. Half of the number died during the first winter in America.

> Formed on the good old plan
> A true and brave and honest downright man!
> Loathing pretense, he did with cheerful will

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

DECEMBER 1620

IN THE YEAR 1950 there was published by Doubleday & Co., Inc., of New York, a book entitled "THE PLYMOUTH ADVENTURE - A Chronicle Novel of the Voyage of the Mayflower," by Ernest Gebler. The reader is referred to it for a detailed account of the period of time from the sailing of the Mayflower from Plymouth, England, until it had left Plymouth, New England the next April, arriving in London, May 6, 1621.

In his notes appears the following, among the list of 102 passengers:
"WILLIAM BRADFORD, aged 31. Born near Austerfield, Yorkshire, England. Became Governor of the settlement and wrote its history .... Died after a lifetime of wholly unselfish service to the settlement at age of 68.

"MRS. DOROTHY BRADFORD, aged 23. Drowned, Cape Cod, December 7, 1620."

Four days after his wife's death, William Bradford stepped ashore for the first time on Plymouth Rock. They had left their only child, John, in England.

At about the time the Mayflower sailed for home Governor Carver died and William Bradford was elected to be his successor.

During the first year of settlement half the company died. Of 24 heads of families only 11 lived, and all but four wives perished.

Exploration on Cape Cod discovered Indian huts, burial grounds and concealed corn but no living savages.

At last when they had worked their way around to the site of Plymouth on the mainland Samoset approached in a wary manner with the words "Welcome Englishmen." One Squanto kidnapped by early voyagers, had lived in Spain and England and was a means of communication with the Indian leader.

The Sachem of the neighboring tribe was Massasoit who came in state to visit Bradford. The two signed a treaty of peace which endured for over 50 years and saved the weak colony from annihilation. An heroic bronze statue of Massasoit now adorns the town of Plymouth, presented by the Society of Red Men.

The casual reader may wonder why the Sachem did not destroy the invading colony. In reality, he was intensely eager for their alliance. To find the reason we shall have to turn to Indian history.

Massasoit was at one time Sachem of a tribe of 30,000 souls.

A pestilence had reduced this number to 300. He therefore owned a large extent of land which he could not defend if attacked by some populous Indian tribe. The coming of the Pilgrims, with their muskets and canon was a Godsend to him. Their coming also had the effect of putting Massasoit in the real estate business.

During Governor Bradford's entire life time in America no Indian wars occurred, but Captain Miles Standish conducted several punitive expeditions in support of Indian allies which were uniformly successful.

BULLETS IN SNAKE SKIN

ON PAGES 125 and 126 of the 1920 edition of Governor William Bradford's history occurs the following:

"Soon after this ships (FORTUNE) departure the great people of the Narigansets, in a braving manner, sente a message unto them (the Governor ond assistant) with a bundle of arrows tyed aboute with a great sneak-skine; which their interpretours tould them was a threatening and a chaleng. Upon which the Gov'r, with the advice of others sent them a round answere, that if they had rather have warre then peace, they might begine when they would; they had done them no wrong, neither did they fear them, or should they find them unprepared.

"And by another messenger sente the sneak-skine back with bulits in it; but they would not receive it, but sent it back againe.

"And herewith I end this year (1621)

"Only I shall remember one passage more, rather of mirth then of waight.

"On the day called Chrismasday, the Gov'r caled them out to worke (as was used) but the most of the new-company (from the Fortune) excused themselves and said it wente against their consciences to work on that day. So the Gov'r told them that if they made it matter of conscience, he would spare them until they were better informed.

"So he lead-away the rest and left them; but when they came home at noone from their worke he found them in the streete at play, openly; some pitching the bar and some at stool ball (a play in which balls were driven from stool to stool) and shuck like sports.

"So he went to them and tooke away their implements, and told them it was against his conscience, that they should play and others worke. If they made the keeping of it a mater of devotion, let them kepe their houses, but there should be no gameing or revelling in the streets.

"Since which time nothing hath been attempted that way, at least openly.

"They are too delicate and unfitte to begine new-plantations and collonies, that cannot enduer the biting of a muskeeto; we would shuch to keepe at home till at least they be muskeeto proofe."

It is astonishing to behold these weak men putting up such a bold front to the savages but armor and swords, to say nothing of the slow, clumsy fire arms, gave Captain Miles Standish and his army of seven men a feeling of security.

An oil painting of the scene was made by Henry A. Botkin in 1920 on order of the Old Colony Trust Company. As no portrait or detailed physical description of Wm. Bradford exists the artist had to draw on his imagination. At the time the incident occurred the Governor was thirty-one years of age.

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

GOV. OF OLD COLONY; PRESIDENT OF NEW ENGLAND

TODAY IN BOSTON the name "Old Colony" is used for banks and restaurants to commemorate the fact that Plymouth Colony was old when Boston and the Massachusetts Bay Colony were founded.

Governor William Bradford ruled over the whole Plymouth Colony with a population of about 3,000 inhabitants, in towns as follows:

Plymouth,	founded December 21,	1620
Duxbury,	founded at an early date.
Kingston	"
Marshfield	"
Plympton	"
Sandwich,	incorporated	1639
Barnstable	"	"
Yarmouth	"	"
Taunton	"	"
Rehoboth	"	1645
Eastham	"	1646
Dridgewater	"	1656

As Governor Bradford died the next year, the present towns of Dartmouth, 1664, Swansea '67, Middleboro '67, Bristol '81, Little Compton '82, Freetown '83 and Falmouth 1686, which completed the list of towns in the Old Colony at its incorporation with Massachusetts in 1692, were not in existence in his time. Today many others occupy the territory formerly constituting Plymouth Colony, including Cape Cod. For those readers unacquainted with the region it is added, that Plymouth is on the main land, where Cape Cod begins.

The King of England offered to create William Bradford Lord of the Manor of Plymouth but Mr. Bradford declined, and distributed the land grant among his followers.

After Governor Bradford had been in America for 23 years an association of New England Colonies was formed called the New England Confederacy, or the United Colonies, the members being about as follows:

Plymouth	3,000	inhabitants
Connecticut	3,000	"
New Haven	3,000	"
Mass. Bay	20,000	"

Rhode Island as Baptist and Maine as Church of England were excluded. Roger Williams had been expelled from The Bay on penalty of death if he returned, but he was always welcome in Plymouth.

Over this considerable number of English, William Bradford was elected PRESIDENT, in May, 1653.

At the time England had a population of 4,000,000, the same number that were recently under the Hon. Robert Fiske Bradford's government.

One of the provisions of the Confederate constitution was the return to his owner of any slave escaping into a neighboring colony. There is no evidence that Governor Bradford kept slaves but his neighbor, Edward Winslow, traded regularly in them between Plymouth and the West Indies. King Philip's widow and small son were sold there.

THE GREAT SWAMP FIGHT 1675

A CENTURY BEFORE the start of the American Revolution there was another revolution in New England with the Americans desperately fighting to drive out the English.

King Philip of Mount Hope, Rhode Island, laid his plans so well that before the two year war ended he had killed 600 English, wounded thousands, burned 600 buildings and entirely destroyed 13 towns in the colonies of Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay.

On December 9th, 1675, the armies of these two colonies joined forces at Dedham and elected Governor Winslow of Plymouth to be their Captain General. Major Appleton commanded the Bay contingent while Major William Bradford, Jr. was the leader of the 158 men from Plymouth. Due to this leadership by the smaller colony there was a saying "THE PLYMOUTH SADDLE ON THE BAY MARE."

Two days later they were at Seaconck, on December 12 passed the Pautuxet River and arrived at Providence where they accepted Captain (and) Reverend Roger Williams' hospitality. He had been banished from Boston on penalty of death if he returned but by now the Bay men were hungry. His company of soldiers was not accepted as they were Baptists while the army followed the Old Testament of Aaron and Moses.

On the 18th they were met by the Connecticut forces and the army now numbered 1010 men, including a troop of horse . That night they had planned to sleep in the garrison house of Jerry Bull, but it had just been captured by King Philip's forces so the English were forced to bivouac in the open all night.

Their destination was a strong fort in the Great Swamp where 4,000 Americans were gathered. The last 15 miles was through snow two or three feet deep, but the fact that the swamp was frozen over helped the invaders.

On December 19th General Winslow ordered the attack. It was successful and over 1,000 natives, men, women and children were massacred. The English lost 6 captains and 80 men killed and 150 wounded among the latter being Major Bradford. His tombstone, to be seen today, records:

"AND IN HIS COUNTRY'S SERVICE LOST MUCH BLOOD"

Later Philip was murdered by one of his own followers and his head pickled and placed on the gibbet in Plymouth where it stood for twenty years.

Philip and his brother, Alexander, sons of Massasoit, were named by Governor Bradford after Philip of Macedon and his son, who conquered the world. The friendship between Massasoit and Governor Bradford was never broken.

Those were the days that tried men's souls, particularly the red men's.

HANDBILL DISTRIBUTED AMONG THE SOLDIERS IN BOSTON, Sept. 1774

"It being more than probable that the King's standard will soon be erected from rebellion braking out in this province, it's proper that you soldiers should know the authors thereof and of all the misfortunes brought upon the province, the following is a list of them:

Messrs. Samuel Adams, James Bowdoin, Dr. Thomas Young, Dr. Benjamin Church, CAPTAIN JOHN BRADFORD, Josiah Quincey, Major Nathaniel Barker, Wm. Molleneux, John Hancock, Wm. Cooper, Dr. Chauncey, Dr. Cooper, Thos. Cushing, Joseph Greenleaf, and Wm. Denning.

The friends of your King and Country and of America hope and expect it of you soldiers the instant rebellion happens, that you will put the above persons to the sword, destroy their houses and plunder their effects; it is just that they should be the first victims of the mischief they have brought upon us."

The Boston Port Bill took effect June 1, 1774 and in September Governor Bradford of R. I. wrote as follows:

"for the support of the distressed inhabitants of Boston, ... 48 pounds, 4 shillings and 4 pence ... to enable you to hold out in so just a cause, against the combination of all wicked and mischiefous beings from the highest source of evil to Lord North. That you may be so enabled to hold out, and be finally victorious over your and our enemies, shall be my constant care by all the industry in my power to contribute, as it will afford me the greatest pleasure on earth.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your most humble servant,
WILLIAM BRADFORD

To Samuel Adams, Esq., Boston."

In the fight against inflation, 1776, we find:-
"RESOLVED; That the Hon. William Bradford, Esq., the Hon. Stephen Hopkins, Esq., and Henry Ward Esq. be and they are hereby appointed a committee.... to prevent the oppressing of the soldiers and inhabitants by extravagant prices."

On December 16, 1773 occurred the Boston Tea Party. Among those present were Jabez Hewes, John May and a descendant of Governor Bradford, the latter complaining that night about tea leaves in his shoes. This is the jingle they sang:

RALLY, MOHAWKS: BRING OUT YOUR AXES;
AND TELL KING GEORGE WE'LL PAY NO TAXES
ON HIS FOREIGN TEA.

FRYING PAN IN THE CEMETERY

They fired low, they fired high,
The women scream, the children cry;
And all their firing and their racket
Shot off the top mast of a packet.

Bombardment of Bristol, R. I.

THE RECORDS of the Colonial Dames state that William Bradford, 1728-1808, was the last deputy Governor of R. I. under the crown and the first Governor under the Continental Congress.

See Chart "D" for descendants today.

During the afternoon of Saturday, 7 October, 1775 (nine months before the Declaration of Independence), Captain Sir James Wallace in his flagship "ROSE", in consort with the "GLASGOW" and "SWAN", entered Bristol harbor and sent a barge commander on shore to see some representative man of the town, about supplying sheep to the British fleet.

William Bradford went forward to meet him.

Governor Bradford, however, refused the demand and the British fleet started to bombard the defenseless town. After an hour and a half of this Captain Wallace sent a message to Governor Bradford:

"If you will promise to supply me with 40 sheep at or before twelve o'clock I will assure you that another gun shall not be fired."

The colonists were forced to comply.

About three years later, Sunday, 25 May, 1778 Lieutenant Colonel Campbell with 500 British and Hessians invaded the town and proceeded to burn the principal buildings.

Governor Bradford's house on the North East corner of State and Hope Streets was destroyed.

One of his negro servants was about to sit down to dinner. In the wild excitment the negro with the frying pan in his hand ran to the East Burying Ground and there seated on a tomb stone proceeded to finish his dinner.

The day before the negro's mistress, wife of Governor Bradford, had been buried there.

Governor Bradford was later elected to the United States Senate, and became speaker of the House of Representatives.

He had a son, Major William Bradford, Jr., who served in the Revolution as aide-de-camp to General Charles Lee.

The grandson, William Bradford, III, had a son, William, IV, who had no children. A descendant from the Governor of Rhode Island was Major William J. Bradford, born 1840 who had a son, William, born at Providence R. I., 1876. Our records stop there.

APRIL 19, 1775

Listen, my children
And you shall hear
Of the midnight ride
Of Paul Revere.

ON THE NIGHT of April 18, 1775 Paul Revere rode through the countryside rousing the Minute Men. The next day occurred the first battle of the Revolution, at Concord and Lexington, and that day is known as the day of the Lexington Alarm. Among the Minute Men who responded were:

Private DAVID BRADFORD, marched from Kingston, Massachusetts, under Captain Peleg Wadsworth, in Col. Theophilus Cotton's Plymouth Regiment.

Private ELIJAH BRADFORD, marched from Hanover under Captain A. Turner in Colonel Bailey's regiment.

Private GIDEON BRADFORD, marched from Plymouth under Captain Thomas Loring.

Captain JOHN BRADFORD, marched from Plympton commanding a company in Colonel Theophilus Cotton's regiment.

Private "JO'S" BRADFORD, from Falmouth in the Barnstable company

Private LEMUEL BRADFORD, marched from Plymouth in Captain J. Harlow's company.

Private PEABODY BRADFORD, marched from Duxbury serving under his uncle, Captain Samuel Bradford, in Colonel Warren's regiment (Peabody was later at Valley Forge under Washington).

Private PEREZ BRADFORD, marched from Plymouth under Captain John Bradford in Colonel Theophilus Cotton's regiment.

Private ROBERT BRADFORD, marched from Kingston April 20, under Captain Peleg Wadsworth in Colonel Theophilus Cotton's regiment.

Corporal SAMUEL BRADFORD, marched, April 22, from Gageboro under Captain N. Watkins.

Captain SAMUEL BRADFORD, marched in command of the first Duxbury company in Colonel James Warren's regiment.

Private SETH BRADFORD, marched from Duxbury in Captain Wadsworth's company of Colonel James Warren's regiment.

Private WILLIAM BRADFORD, marched from Duxbury serving under his father, Captain Samuel Bradford.

Private WINSLOW BRADFORD, marched from Plympton through Marshfield under Captain Thomas Loring.

UNDER LaFAYETTE AT YORKTOWN

AT LEAST ONE of the Continental soldiers present at Cornwallis' surrender was a descendant of Governor William Bradford.

Although this descendant was down in the regimental roster as "Robert Shurtliffe" her real name was Deborah, daughter of that Deborah Bradford who married Jonathon Sampson. Long years before, when the war was starting, she had heard the cannonade at the battle of Bunker Hill, but as she was then only 15 years old she could do nothing about it. It became her firm resolve to enter the Continental army and she spent several years spinning, weaving and sewing clothing required for a soldier, to fit herself.

She volunteered for service from the town of Uxbridge at Bellingham, Massachusetts and was assigned as a private to Captain Webb's company, Col. Shepard's regiment, in General Patterson's army, enlisting for three years. She was 5' 7½" tall, with hazel eyes, inclining to blue. Her partly self-made uniform consisted of a blue coat faced with white; white vest; white breeches; stockings with black garters at the knee; half boots; black stock made of velvet stiffened with leather; a cap with variegated cockade on one side and a white plume tipped with red on the other, and a white sash around the crown. She carried a French fusee with bayonet, knapsack, cartridge - box and 30 cartridges.

In one skirmish with the enemy the man next to her was killed but she said she suffered more from heat, fatigue and thirst than from fear. Toward the close of the war she was transferred to Colonel Henry Jackson's regiment of light infantry and marched south thru Philadelphia to Head-of-Elk where transports took them south to the neighborhood of Yorktown, Virginia.

Here Deborah labored beside sturdy men striving to hold her own while under enemy fire. On one occasion a cannon ball passed so close over her head that she felt the wind of it as it killed four men directly behind her.

On October 7, 1781 she was one of a detachment digging trenches toward the British lines. From then on, day and night, there was heavy fire from both sides.

At length it was seen that two redoubts held by the enemy 300 yards away, whose fire enfiladed the American position, must be carried by an assault. French troops under Baron de Viomenil were assigned to one and a detachment of Americans under LaFayette the other. Deborah served under the latter and was present to witness the surrender of 7,000 British, October 19, 1781, which ended the Revolutionary War.

Her discharge papers read in part:
"that he had the confidence of his officers, did his duty as a good and faithful soldier and was honorably discharged from the Army of the United States,

Hy. Jackson, late Colonel,
in the American Army."

Three years later she married Benjamin Gannet and had three children.

WHAT! NO BAYONETS

"Wait till you see the whites of their eyes
"Then fire low, at their belts."

ALDEN BRADFORD in the year 1825 published a History of the Battle of Bunker Hill, where several of his kinsmen fought. His story is deposited in the corner stone of the Monument erected that year.

About midnight of June 16, 1775 Samuel Bradford and Gideon Bradford, Jr., in company with some 2000 other revolutionists started to erect breastworks on Breed's Hill on Dorchester Heights. At daybreak the British ships started a cannonade and between 2 and 3 o'clock the infantry attack started.

Samuel Bradford fought in Col. Stark's regiment and a fellow member of this regiment wrote as follows: "The British troops landed at Charlestown beach and marched up the hill in three separate columns. The Fusiliers formed on the British right in front of Stark's regiment which was stationed on the extreme left of the American forces." ... his "company was located down on the Mystic Beach wholly unprotected by any defence in their front. The column of the Fusiliers did not deploy until they passed Abbott's company, therefore they were outflanked by us, hence we had a good chance to pick off their officers. This chance we improved, as we could distinguish the officers by observing the swords in their hands and that they had occasion to use them in urging their men into the fight." The Fusiliers loss was so great that it is said only one officer remained to tell the story.

Early in the day the cannon balls were used up and the artillery company left the redoubt. The battle, however, kept up until 6 o'clock when the Americans withdrew.

One important factor in the American defense was a rail fence against which the Revolutionists had piled hay to hide their presence.

After repulsing two formal attacks by the British the American powder gave out. This was a good chance to use the bayonet as that is a formidable weapon in defending breastworks. The story goes, however, that a certain Mr. Coffin, a Quaker from Nantucket, had bought up the supply of bayonets and taking them out to sea had dumped them overboard. Why he was not hanged is a mystery.

The embattled farmers nevertheless gave a good account of themselves. If we deduct officers we have about 1,800 Revolutionists and there were 1,800 British killed or wounded. The British loss was 45% against 19% for the Americans.

Gideon Bradford, Jr., aged 23, was recorded later as a drummer. We do not know what rank he held at Bunker Hill nor is there any list of those 2,000 soldiers who fought so long against 4,000 British regulars.

About two weeks later General George Washington arrived to take command of the army, General Joseph Warren having been killed in the action.

SHIP-OF-WAR BRADFORD

Named for Captain Gamaliel Bradford, early American privateersman, the USS Bradford (DD545) had the traditional bottle of champagne smashed across her bow at the launching ceremony on 12 December 1942 by Mrs. Sarah Bradford Ross, one of Captain Bradford's descendants.

It is a boat of 376'-6" length by 39'-4" beam, of a displacement of 2,050 tons and has a rated speed of 35 knots. That makes her a fast destroyer.

The BRADFORD earned twelve (12) BATTLE STARS on the Asiatic-Pacific Area Service Medal for participation in the following operations:-

STAR: Tarawa Island Raid, 18 Sept., 1943.
Wake Island Raid, 5 to 6 Oct., 1943.
STAR: Gilbert Islands, Nov. 13 to Dec. 8, 1943.
STAR: Kavieng Strikes, 1943-44.
STAR: Marshall Islands, 29 Jan. to 8 Feb., 1944.
STAR: Truk Island, 16 to 17 Feb., 1944.

Palau, Yap, Ulithi, raids, 30 Mar. to 1 April '44.
STAR: Capture of Saipan, 11 June, 1944.
Bonins Raids, 1944.
Battle of Philippine Sea, 19-20 June, '44.
Capture of Guam, 12 July, 1944.
STAR: Assaults on Philippines, 9-24 Sept., '44.
STAR: Iwo Jima, 15 Feb. - 16 March, 1945.
STAR: Okinawa, 24 March to 30 June, 1945.
STAR: Operations against Japan, 1945.
STAR: Hollandia Operations, 1944.
STAR: Minesweeping, E. China Sea, 1945.

The first operation of major importance in which the Bradford participated was the Gilbert Islands Operation. Two Betty type Japanese torpedo bombers were suddenly sighted. This was the start of a 45 minute duel between 16 or 18 Japanese Betty torpedo bombers and the two destroyers, Brown and Bradford.

The enemy waited for the cover of darkness to push home their attack. The enemy planes made torpedo runs from various directions with the close timing of an experienced team. One torpedo bomber made a low fast run from dead ahead dropping his torpedo about 800 yards ahead of the Bradford. The torpedo wake was observed to head directly for the ship for approximately 500 yards and then to take a slight turn to the right missing the port side by not more than 10 feet. The wake was clearly visible all the way down the port side.

The plane, after dropping the torpedo, maneuvered violently to avoid hitting the ship and was well hit by 40 MM fire as it passed down the starboard side and was observed to splash on the starboard quarter.

Immediately following the attack from the port bow an attack was made from the port beam by 2 or 3 planes which dropped torpedoes at ranges from 1,000 to 1,500 yards, all of which were seen to miss astern, probably due to the high speed of the Bradford.

One, attempting a suicide crash on the Bradford, was shot down in flames 200 yards from the fantail.

NAUVOO

The gleam of the camp-fire of emigrant trains
Is seldom now seen on the far away plains.

IN THE YEAR 1947 the United States Government issued a postage stamp to commemorate the century since the PIONEERS ENTERED THE VALLEY OF THE GREAT SALT LAKE. It is a 3 cent dark violet.

Jehial Bradford, generally spoken of as "Hial," was born in Berwick, Ontario, Canada, 25 July, 1804. He married Abigail Sprague of New York and moved to Illinois where he settled at Nauvoo on the Mississippi River, Hancock County. Here he bought two farms.

In 1841 Hial Bradford received the Patriarchal Blessing of the patriarch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints as he had become a Mormon, the only one of ten children to do so.

He died four years later and his widow resolved to go West.

"In June, 1847, Abigail, with her father, her brother and her children - Mary Ann (sixteen), Rawsel (fourteen), Sylvester (eight), Pleasand (four) and Tryphena (one and a half) started for the West. Abigail had sold the two farms for two outfits, including a plow and some other implements, seeds for planting and provisions.

"They traveled in Bishop Edward Hunter's company of one hundred wagons, Captain Horne's fifty and Captain Archibald Gardner's company of ten.

"During the journey one ox died, so they hooked up "Old Lil," the milch cow, to take his place. Each morning the milk was poured into the churn and each night a pat of butter was taken out. The jolting of the wagon did the trick.

"The "Old Sow," a cannon used in the War of 1812, was brought across the plains with them to be used against the Indians if necessary. Sylvester Bradford and two other boys took turns riding it. The cannon is now in the museum on Temple Square, Salt Lake City.

"Upon reaching the valley they located in the "Old Fort." The children helped make the adobes which went into their first home in the valley.

Excerpts from "Life of Archibald
Gardner" by Delila Gardner Hughes.

Nauvoo, when recently visited by the editor, was found to be a back-water village on the Mississippi with tokens of past glory. Gigantic carved stone bases of the columns of the portico of the Great Tabernacle attest the size of that edifice, ruined a century ago.

A seminary of future missionaries has a dormitory near the site.

We are assembled here today-
A band of pioneers,
To celebrate with grateful hearts,
Events of by-gone years.

DESERET

O MOTHER DEAR JERUSALEM
WHEN SHALL I COME TO THEE
WHEN SHALL MY SORROW HAVE AN END
THY JOYS WHEN SHALL I SEE?

It was Governor Young's thought to name his new land "DESERET," but it came into the Union as the state of the Utes, or Utah.

One of Hial Bradford's grandchildren was named Ann Deseret Bradford, and another descendant was a member of the staff of the Deseret News.

Hial Bradford's descendants today are interested in the three M's, - Missionary Zeal, Music and Mining.

From 1932 to 1935 Mr. (now Dr.) Reed H. Bradford fulfilled a mission for his church in Germany. He received a Ph. D. degree from Harvard University, in sociology, in 1946.

Howard Bradford of 831 Logan Avenue, Salt Lake City, returned home in September, 1949 from a two and one-half year mission for the L. D. S. Church in France, Belgium and Switzerland.

Lola Bradford, later Mrs. George Milne Wall, president of the Bradford Family Association of Utah, fulfilled a mission in the Eastern States and in 1937 toured Japan and China.

In the musical field we find the three brothers - Henry D. Bradford, Robert D. and Rawsell Bradford, who play the cello, violin and flute, respectively, accompanied on the piano by their sister, Nettie.

On Wednesday 25 January 1946 at 8 P. M. a Public Testimonial Reception and Musical Honoring Miss Lisle Bradford was held in Kingsbury Hall with the reception immediately following in the Union Building, University of Utah. Miss Bradford has built up a fine reputation as director of chorals at the Great Temple, Salt Lake City.

Robert Davis Bradford, of an old Utah family, now lives in Oakland, California, as manager of the California District of the American Smelting and Refining Company. Formerly he was located with the same company in New York City; East Helena, Montana; and El Paso, Texas.

In a recent issue of The Saturday Evening Post, in a write-up on Salt Lake City, the present-day importance of mining was stressed. Dr. Robert Henry Bradford, was, at the time of his death, professor of Metallurgical Research at Brigham Young University, and now his son, Harold R. Bradford is assistant-professor of the same subject at the University of Utah.

OKLAHOMA

GRAB YOUR PARDNER BY THE CRAW
AND SWING HER CLEAR TO ARKANSAS
Dance-Tune

WHEN WHAT IS NOW OKLAHOMA was known as Indian Territory a certain WILLIAM BRADFORD was a sutler, or concessionaire as we would say, at Fort Towson.

In the election of August 1, 1825 he received 107 votes for the office of member of the Territorial Council, while his opponent, Sheriff Claiborne Wright got only 102.

However, the sheriff presented himself before the court and asked that he be seated instead of Mr. Bradford.

The committee, being possibly in awe of the sheriff's two six shooters, reported that in reality Bradford had lost out by two votes.

At that time in Miller county, where William Bradford lived, there were about four horses for every inhabitant, man, woman and child. We have come a long way to this horseless age.

Eight years earlier another William Bradford had entered the neighboring territory of Arkansas to found Fort Smith, to house his detachment of riflemen, he being their major.

The Public Library in Little Rock has a good many references to this William Bradford who became a Brigadier-General in 1825. It is said that due to General Bradford's efforts the territory was indebted for the raising of nine regiments of splendid troops for frontier defense.

His methods of enlistment could not have been very gentle as he was accused of a forced enlistment of a man in the U.S. Army at Fort Smith from 1817 to 1821. The jury gave a verdict to the plaintiff for fourteen hundred and fifty dollars.

A few years later two brothers, Daniel F. and Putnam E. Bradford bought the first railroad in Oregon Territory.

It was built entirely of wood, and each car was drawn by one mule.

They bought of Judge Cheneweth and rebuilt it in 1856. The Indian massacre at the Cascades on the Columbia River occurred while this improvement was being made.

The men were attacked while at work and fled in all directions, one or two being killed.

In 1861 the road was again rebuilt, using iron rails and steam engines.

JOHN BRADFORD'S LOG CHAIN

We are trampling out the vintage
Where the grapes of wrath are stored.

At the time of the war between the states there lived in St. Clair county, Alabama, a number of persons who were neither land owners nor slave holders. They were the descendants of indentured and bond servants and were regarded as an inferior class and were looked down upon by gentry and slave alike.

When war broke out these people claimed to be for the Union but refused to fight on either side. When called for military duty they hid in caves in the surrounding hills. Finally, as all men who could or would fight were in the armies these undesirables preyed on the defenseless old men, women and children, terrorizing them at night by burning their houses and robbing them of all they possessed. They killed many disabled men.

On a certain night near the end of the war a band of these Tories visited the Herring home near Springville where the Herring Filling Station now stands. After beating Mr. Herring into unconsciousness the desperadoes took his boots and ring, and left him for dead.

The band then moved to the Wiley Truss home about a mile south of Springville. Here they took Mr. Truss from his bed and refused his request that he be permitted to put on his clothes, saying that clothes were unnecessary as they were going to kill him. Several of the band were left on guard while the others went a mile to the home of Phileman Bradford to get John Bradford who had been discharged from the Confederate army because of illness. They intended to kill Mr. Bradford with Mr. Truss.

But now the plot thickens.

They broke down the door and Mr. Bradford immediately opened fire, killing one and wounding another in the knee. Seeing no one else to shoot at, Mr. Bradford fired at a horse belonging to the Tories. At that moment a Tory raised his hand to unhitch the horse and the bullet took off his finger. Hearing the shots the men left to guard Mr. Truss fled and he escaped by hiding behind a log.

The next morning it was learned that the dead man was a Mr. Shadwick and he was wearing the ring and boots of Mr. Herring's. Mr. Bradford told some of his negroes to put the log chain around the dead man's neck and drag him to the turnip patch and bury him. Mr. Bradford's mother asked her son not to be so cruel, so the negroes were told to carry the body and not drag it.

The relatives of Shadwick came in a day or two and asked for the body, but John Bradford refused to let them have it. Again his mother interceded and persuaded him to give the dead man to his relatives. The body was taken away in an ox wagon.

His truth is marching on.

Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
His truth is marching on.

ADMIRAL BRADFORD'S FIRST ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Aye, backward roll historic wheels
And let us see again,
The old-time men and women,
As they were living then.

THE ABOVE QUOTED VERSES appear in a History of Turner, Maine, where, shortly after the Revolution Ezekiel Bradford, Revolutionary soldier, removed with his large family, from the neighborhood of Plymouth (Duxbury), Mass.

What is now known as Turner Center was originally named BRADFORD after this Ezekiel and his six sons who were early settlers there. His seventh son settled in New Gloucester, Maine.

Early Bradfords were active in local politics, being selectmen, town treasurers and one being sent to the General Court at the state capital of Augusta.

Through such family influence a lad named Roval Bird Bradford, son of General Phillips Bradford of Turner, secured the coveted appointment as mid-shipman in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

After graduation in 1865 and passing through the rank of ensign he was commissioned a lieutenant but shortly thereafter was laid up with a prolonged illness. During the period of convalescence he occupied his time preparing a genealogy of his branch of the Bradford Family Tree back to William of the Mayflower. This essay was published in the issue of January 18, 1883 in the Lewiston (Maine) Weekly Journal. A copy is now in the possession of a collateral descendant, Mr. William Bradford, Jr., of Wilmington, Delaware.

Lt. Royal Bird Bradford next conceived the idea of raising a fund to erect a suitable monument over the graves of the pioneer ancestors, Ezekiel and Betsey (Chandler) Bradford, but found collections very meager. What he had set his heart on was a block of Quincey granite, eight feet high and weighing, according to the stone cutter, some 5,000 pounds.

Later he was promoted to the grade of Lieutenant-Commander and apparently set aside a good part of his increased pay toward the MONUMENT. At any rate it was finally erected, largely due to his generosity.

His later career was brilliant. He commanded the battleship "ILLINOIS" and the 3rd squadron, Atlantic Fleet. He was the first American Naval Officer to install electric lights in a ship-of-war, the "TRENTON," thereby reducing the danger of fire from oil lamps or candles.

On retirement he was graded to Admiral and received a very complimentary letter from President Theodore Roosevelt.

"CAPTAIN GAMALIEL BRADFORD, PRIVATEERSMAN;

Mr. Gershom Bradford, who resides in Washington, D. C. with a summer home not far from Plymouth, Mass. provided the data for one such as follows:-

"Captain Gamaliel Bradford commanded the American private armed ship MARY of Boston, Mass. of 191 tons, mounting 12 guns and having a compliment of from 19 to 25 men.

"On 6 March 1799 Captain Bradford was attacked by two French privateers. A severe engagement followed and at the end of two hours the MARY compelled the privateers to sheer off.

"Later he commanded the private armed ship 'Industry' of Boston, Mass., mounting twelve 9-pound guns and having a compliment of 24 to 25 men.

"The 'Industry' sailed from Naples on the 15th of June, 1800, and arrived safely at Gibraltar on the 18th of July.

"Soon after entering the gut there came from shore a large French privateer. She hoisted French colors after going astern and firing a gun. She was such a distance away that the stern guns of the 'Industry' could not reach her although she was throwing grape into and beyond the American ship.

"Soon three other privateers came out and commenced firing. Conceiving themselves to be superior to the 'Industry' they became bolder and approached nearer, thus enabling Captain Bradford to keep up a steady firing upon them.

"After engaging the privateers for three hours, Captain Bradford was wounded by a grape shot in the thigh, which nearly went through.

"He was taken to his cabin and his brother, first mate Gershom Bradford, continued the battle for another two hours and a half, when the privateers sheered off, and the 'Industry' steered for Cadiz.

"Captain Hollowel of his Britannic Majesty's ship SWIFTSURE sent his chief surgeon on board to examine Captain Bradford's wound. When amputation of the thigh was recommended he declined as he wished to reach Lisbon.

"It was ten days before they arrived at Lisbon when the brave captain was landed and underwent the amputation of his thigh.

"One of the French privateers mounted 10 guns, the bow guns being 18 pounders; another mounted 8 guns and the other two had guns in their bows only."

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

WILLIAM BRADFORD, IRISHMAN

IN THE YEAR 1775 there was born in North Ireland a child christened William Bradford who, we dare say, was a descendant of that Peter Bradford of Yorkshire, England, progenitor of all known Bradfords.

When eight years of age he was brought to America by his parents, stayed for a while in Pennsylvania, and then settled in Kentucky.

Most of the names today in that state appear to be his descendants.

He married Elizabeth Johnson and settled in Augusta where his eleven children were born.

His sons were:

Jonathon Johnson Bradford, M. D., born 1808;

Laban Johnson Bradford, b. 1816; married 1840 a Miss Jewell of Louisiana;

Joshua Taylor Bradford, M. D., born 1819; died 1871; married Sally E. Armstrong.

Dr. Joshua Taylor Bradford is recorded in the Kentucky Biographical Encyclopedia as being the most successful Ovariotomist in the world. His children were W. G. Bradford and Emily.

Laban Johnson Bradford had a son, Alexander Jewell Bradford, of Bradford, Kentucky, who married May Dudley of Lexington and had a son, Lawrence Jewell Bradford, and a daughter Jewell, who married Mr. Winall, both children residing in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lawrence Jewell Bradford had children: L. J. Jr., Dr. Henry Alexander Bradford of Denver, Colorado, and Mrs. John A. Presta of Long Beach, Calif.

Lawrence Jewell Bradford, Jr., born 1920, married 1942 Oivida Robinson and has children: L. J. III, born 1943 and Adelia Ann Bradford, born 1947.

Laban Bradford of Bradford, Ky., had children: William Robert, Walter, George, Edith, Dolly and Florence.

William Robert Bradford, as above, was born in 1881, married Elizabeth Jane Craycraft and has children: Walter R., of Bellevue, Ky., James W., of Dayton, Ky., William O., of Dayton, Mrs. Dolly Freudiger, Mrs. Eliz. Machinot and Mrs. Delores Dieters.

Walter R. Bradford of Bellevue, Kentucky, married in 1936, Dolly Wolff and has children named Robert Louis, born 1937; Jack William, born '38, Dennis Eugene, b. '41 and Sharon Sue, born 1945.

Other members of the family at Bradford, Kentucky are Oliver Bradford, Anna Maines, and Mrs. Hattie Litzinger.

Lawrence Jewell Bradford, Jr., gave a good account of himself in Europe, receiving the 5-Battle Star. He was first lieutenant, 83rd Infantry Division from Normandy to the Elbe for three years.

CAPTAIN COOK'S MIDSHIPMAN, RICHARD BRADFORD

AFTER LEAVING TAHITI July 13, 1769, Captain Cook sailed for New Zealand. His landing there is depicted on a 3 cent stamp issued in 1903. The 6 cent of the same issue shows "Annexation of New Zealand" with a number of Englishmen raising a flagpole. One of the companions of the Captain is shown as a younger man, who, we may suppose, was his midshipman, Richard Bradford.

They circumnavigated the globe and one of Cook's officers was Blye, later the notorious Captain Blye of the Bounty. The story "Mutiny on the Bounty" and "Men against the Sea" describe the era.

After a safe return to England, young Richard Bradford studied for the ministry, took holy orders and was for a while connected with Norwich Cathedral.

He successively became chaplain of the 49th regiment and chaplain to King George III, serving as minister of the church attended by Queen Charlotte. Among the queen's ladies-in-waiting was charming Lady Sarah Jeffreys whose heart and hand were won by the Reverend Richard Bradford.

They were married while she was yet at Court and when they crossed the sea to Canada "they took a whole ship's cabin to themselves."

They sold their property before leaving England and brought all their gold with them and "it was so heavy that it took a yoke of oxen to draw it." After arrival Richard took a partner in business. Leaving this man in charge the minister took a missionary trip among the Indians, but when he returned home he found that his partner had decamped with all the money.

"This left him poor - poor but as Lionhearted as another Richard of England had been."

Reverend Richard Bradford set up his first church in the Ottawa Valley, St. Andrews East, Quebec in which area he was the first Anglican clergyman. He was rector there for nine years and two years of his ministry were spent at William Henry, now Sorel. He served the Church of England in Canada from 1805 until the year of his death, 1816.

In recognition of his services the British Government made him a grant of land consisting of one thousand acres in the township of Chatham.

His daughter, Harriet Bradford, married the Reverend Joseph Abbott and was mother of Sir John Abbott, who became the first Canadian born premier of Canada.

From his son, George, descend many prominent residents of the Ottawa Valley - among them the Bradfords of North River and Chatham; the Hammonds of Lachute; the MacAllisters of Chute-au-Blondeau; the McConnells of Cushing and the Cooks of Arundel.

Taken from the Montreal Churchman

P.S. Today many of Richard Bradford's descendants live in Oregon and Washington.

ADMIRAL R. D. BRADFORD

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

WHITE PONEY
A WESTERN

BLACK HAWK, Sachem of the Sac and Fox tribes along the Mississippi had a motto, "Welcome Englishmen."

In the War of 1812 he sided with the English against the Americans.

Twenty years later he declared war on the United States.

Oren Bradford, aged 32, in the sixth generation of the family in America, was a Lieutenant of U.S. Cavalry, Regular Army. During the Black Hawk War he won promotion to the rank of Captain. Born in Vermont he finally settled in Iowa.

Another Bradford participated in this Indian frontier warfare. Abner Bradford fought in the Battle of Kellog's Grove 25 June 1832 serving under Major John Bement in Colonel Zachary Taylor's regiment.

Learning that a large force of the enemy commanded by Black Hawk, himself, on a white pony, was in the vicinity Major Bement ordered 50 men to reconnoitre.

Upon sight of the foe they rushed forward without orders and as the Major soon perceived were likely to fall into the ambush prepared for them.

Abner Bradford was caught in the trap set, when at the entrance to a bushy ravine he and his party were met with a warcry and a sharp fire, all the more galling because concealed. The strategy of the cunning leader of the Sacs was successful and terror and confusion reigned in the ranks of the soldiers. Finally the Major withdrew his command within a stockade. Here the attack was renewed, the principal result being the loss of 47 horses which had been left hitched outside by the beleaguered party.

Among the four soldiers killed in this battle was Abner Bradford, whose name is engraved on the monument erected on the site of the battle in the year 1886.

Before the War ended Black Hawk had done over $2,000,000 worth of damage.

When captured he was later allowed to settle along the Mississippi. For a time he and his sons toured the country as a sort of grass-roots opera house display.

He died at the age of 71 and his skeleton was dug from the grave by an enterprising Westerner and sold to the Historical Society at Burlington, Iowa, where the Editor resided for some time.

A county in Iowa was named in honor of the red man.

In the year 1926 the Ladies Aid Society of the neighborhood held an Historical Pageant and one entry was BLACK HAWK, no doubt on his white charger.

Descendants of Oren Bradford today include Mrs. P. J. Bradford of Salem, Oregon.

WOODEN TYPE AND PIED LEAD

DURING THE PIONEER PERIOD in various parts of this country printed notices were much in demand, advertising run away slaves, etc.

In the year 1779 John Bradford journeyed to the Bluegrass country. When it became known that he understood the art of printing he was urged to get out some hand bills.

As he had no type he proceeded to make some of wood which served the immediate purpose.

He then ordered regular lead type from Pittsburgh but when it arrived the boxes had been upset and the type pied. As his only helper fell sick about that time John Bradford had a hard time starting his "KENTUCKE GAZETTE," the first newspaper of the frontier region.

On the evening of March 6, 1950, The John Bradford Historical Society of Lexington, Kentucky, met in the chapel of Transylvania College for their thirty-fourth annual meeting. There are now over one hundred members.

This John Bradford married Elizabeth James and had sons James M., Charles, Benjamin James, Daniel and Fielding, most of whom followed in their father's footsteps as printers and publishers.

Still earlier we find records of William Bradford, Quaker, coming with William Penn in the "WELCOME" in 1682 to found Philadelphia.

Four years after arrival he published the first almanack. Some years later he removed to New York City and was immediately made Royal Printer. His advent into the colony April 10, 1693 started printing in New York. He lies buried in Trinity Church Yard, New York, under a stone bearing this inscription:-

"HERE LIES the body of William Bradford, Printer, who departed this Life May 23, 1752, aged 92 years. He was born in Leicestershire, in Old England in 1660 and came to America in 1682 before the city of Philadelphia was laid out. He was printer to this Government for upwards of 50 years and being quite worn out with Old Age and labour, he left this mortal state in the lively Hopes of a blessed Immortality."

In the New York Gazette and Weekly Post Boy 1750 appears this advertisement:-
"CHOICE OLD MADEIRA Wine, to be sold by William Bradford, Jr., in Hanover Square by the Pipe; Likewise a parcel of choice Iron Chimney Backs and plates for Cabooses; & gives ready money for old Pewter and Brass."

This William had a son, Wm., III, who published the Pennsylvania Journal & Weekly Advertizer 1741 to 1801 with the motto "UNITE OR DIE" and a divided snake. Benjamin Franklin was employed by the Bradfords and borrowed heavily from them. William III served in the Revolution at the battles of Trenton, Princeton, etc., and was appointed a colonel.

William's son, Wm. IV, was appointed by President Washington to be Attorney General of the U.S., and is buried in St. Mary's Churchyard, Burlington, N.J.

FORTY-NINERS

OH, MY SUSANNA, DON'T YOU WEEP FOR ME I'M OFF TO CALIFORNIA WITH A BANJO ON MY KNEE

IN THE YEAR 1948 THE UNITED STATES issued a postage stamp depicting Sutter's mill, where gold was discovered a century before.

George Brinley Bradford was in the Rush of the Argonauts in 1849. His descendants are found today in and around Los Angeles. Henry Felix Bradford was shipwrecked and drowned on the way out, at Panama, aged twenty years.

Thomas Seavey Bradford, at age eighteen, wrote to his father as follows:

"Diamond Springs, Cal.
September 26, 1852.

"Dear Father:

After a long journey we reached Hangtown or Placerville, Calif. I stayed about Hangtown a few days. I went to all the shops to get work but could not get to work. Here I found Millman to work at blacksmithing. His partner had died about a week before. I asked him if he wanted to hire any help. No, he said, he had not enough tools, but if I could get another set of tools we could go into partnership. So I borrowed 100 dollars of Condee to get tools. We got one pair 42" bellows for 60.00, anvil 180 pounds 45.00.

Now for the plains!

We left Council Bluff, Iowa May 22. Condee was captain of our train. It consisted of 28 teams and about 90 men. The 28th of May one man died out of our train, from Indiana; the 29th one died from Wisconsin pinery; the next one that died out of our train was Macune the blacksmith from Kenosha. He was dying when I wrote you from Fort Laramie.

In about a week if work comes in well I can pay Condee. For horse shoeing, new shoes, we get 5 dollars; 75 cents for setting old ones; for setting tires 8 dollars per set. Flour is worth 16 cents per lb. now. Sunday is the greatest business day in Hangtown. I will send you in this letter a small sample of CALIFORNIA GOLD.

I have nothing more to write now., perhaps I will have more to write next time. Be sure and not forget to write to me as soon as you get this. Direct it to Placerville, Calif.

Your son,
T. S. Bradford"

Later the writer returned to Iowa where he became the first mayor of Nashua. At that town he became head of the blacksmithing and wagon shop of BRADFORD & SUTHERLAND.

Oh, cherished be for evermore
The days of auld lang syne,
Those Golden days, - remembered days -
The days of 'Forty-Nine.

AT FORT SUMTER

Tenting tonight on the old camp grounds
Give us a song to cheer,
Our weary hearts, a song of home,
And friends we love so dear.

The following are descended from Gov. Wm.:

In the year 1861 Charles Henry Bradford, aged 24, from Portland, Maine, was stationed at Fort Sumter, South Carolina as lieutenant of the United States Marine Corps, under Major Anderson. On April 12 the fort was fired upon by the rebels under Beauregard and Lt. Bradford received a mortal wound, dying, after the surrender, at nearby Charleston.

Among others to draw the sword were the brothers Charles McPherson Bradford and Robert Hector Bradford. The elder was commissioned by President Jefferson Davis to command a regiment in the army of the Confederate States of America. Colonel Bradford died the year after the close of hostilities. His brother, a captain in the 28th Louisiana Regiment, survived to practice law in Washington, D. C. Also in Louisiana at the battle of Brasher's City, Ansel K. Bradford of the first Mass. Regiment was wounded. Thus cousin fought to kill cousin.

Two other Mass. men were Noah Bradford from Hyannis, Mass. 1st Sergeant, Co. "E" 40th reg. who served three years and Elias Bradford who also served three years and settled on a farm in Conway, Mass.

Charles Holbrook Bradford, although born in Boston enlisted 22nd Nov. 1862 in Co. "A" N. Y. Volunteers. Another N. Y. man was George H. Bradford, Independent Battery, who fought his guns at battles of Lea's Mills, Williamsburg, White Oak Swamp, Charles City Cross Roads, Malvern Hill and Antietam, dying in service in 1862 at Hagerstown, Maryland.

From Providence, R. I. went Edward F. Bradford and Wm. James Bradford, the latter serving as Lt. on the staff of Gen. Frank Wheeton. Wilmington, Delaware sent James Hayward Bradford as 2nd Lt. enlisting 1862.

The Pennsylvania contingent included Leonard Jarvis Bradford, M. D. attached to Co. "A", 171st Penna. Infantry. Among others of the family in Ohio was Albert Bradford who is recorded as having fought in 12 battles. He survived to become a farmer in Chilicothe, Ohio. Wm. R. Bradford died in service in Co. "I", 13th Mich. Infantry at the battle of Catauba River, S. C. To Livingston, Montana, after four years of war returned Charles Otis Bradford. Amos Bradford served in the 123rd Illinois Vol. Infantry. Sidney Bradford was a corporal in the 8th Illinois Cavalry.

When General Sherman started his successful dash from Atlanta to the sea his artillery arm was the first Ohio guns, in which Harlan P. Bradford served. Through their efforts the stars and stripes were hoisted again over Fort Sumter, 14 April, 1865.

John Brown's body lies a mouldering in the grave
While we go marching on.

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

CAROLINA AND ALABAMA

ON THE SECOND SUNDAY in September of each year the annual reunion occurs of The Bradford Family of Alabama. Their motto is "Bring a well filled lunch basket." Charley Alvin Bradford, Route 7, Box 129 is the member reporting for this large branch of the general Bradford family tree.

On March 25, 1749, Phileman Bradford bought of the Earl of Granville, 640 acres of land on both sides of Fishing Creek, Granville County, North Carolina. The next year Phileman, Jr. bought 200 acres from Thomas Bradford of Northampton (now Warren) North Carolina.

There were three Phileman Bradfords in Franklin County, N. C. The eldest was there in 1746 when the county was first established from Edgecombe County. Then Phileman Jr., who bought land of his father, Phileman, Sr., in 1758 and then Phileman Bradford, son of Thomas. Thomas' will, probated May 1786 mentions sons Phileman, David, Thomas, Ephraim, Richard and Benjamin.

Phileman Bradford, III (son of Thomas), 1757-1824, died in N. C. leaving sons Henry, Thomas C., Wm. D., Archie, Phileman, Lemuel J., and Benjamin.

Archie Bradford, son of Phileman III, was born 19 August, 1792, and died between 1840 and 1850. His home was four miles south of Springville, Alabama on Georgia Road, of 160 acres. On 5 April, 1812 he married Mary Judah Glenn and had sons: Phileman IV, George, Lemuel, Duke, Henry, Wm. and James.

Phileman Bradford, IV, son of Archie, had sons Wm., Monroe, Hy. S., George and Hale.

Henry S. Bradford, (son of Phileman IV,) 1845-1893, married Margaret Watson and resided at Warrior, Alabama, having children:

(1) Nan, 1868-1930; m. Wesley Brewer

(2) Ruth, 1871-1895, unm.

(3) Ida, m. James Miller, Route 2, Box 150, Panama City, Florida

(4) Emma, m. Joseph Cates (deceased) her address; Rt. 2, Warrior, Ala.

(5) Ella, m. Samuel Ayers (deceased) her address; Rt. 2, Warrior, Ala.

(6) Margaret, m. Otto Fuller (deceased) m. (2) Wm. Burns, Warrior, Ala.

(7) Robert, m. and both deceased.

(8) Edd, m. Grace Linn; address Rt. 1, Adamsville, Ala.

(9) John Thomas, 1880-1913, unm.

(10) Etta, m. Chas. Burns (deceased) Warrior, Ala.

(11) Charley Alvin, b. 11 Nov. 1883; m. at Lewisburg, Ala., Ruth B. Downs;
Children (a) Lucille, b. 28 Mar. 1913
(b) Margaret, b. 2 Mar. 1918
m. 1946 Fred A. Page.

There is a tradition in the family that Phileman and Thomas were descended from Wm. of the Mayflower. Nothing has been discovered to disprove this.

Robert E. Lee Bradford writes from Texas that his father, John Bradford, fought under "Marse Robert"; hence the son's name. They are a branch of the numerous Alabama family.

BRADFORD ISLAND AMONG THE SALMON

THE MAGAZINE "LIFE" recently carried an article on the Bonneville Dam and the Bradford Island Fishway, which shows the importance of this feature. A circular issued in 1949 by the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, is illustrated with maps of Bradford Island and gives the following statistics:

"FISHWAYS:

Fishladders;-

Number	3
Length; Washington Shore,	1,312 '
; Bradford Island	1,312 '
Width; Main Bradford Island	40 '
Length of pools, between transverse weires	16 '
Vertical drop between successive pools	1 '

In the Spring and Fall salmon seek passage by Bonneville Dam on their way upstream to their spawning grounds." Bradford Island is over a mile in length.

Now how did this island, three thousand miles from Plymouth Rock, derive its name?

A certain William Bradford, in the 5th generation in America (starting with Gov. Wm.) had a son, Reverend Ebenezer Bradford, graduate of the College of New Jersey in 1771. Ebenezer's son was Rev. James, Graduate of Dartmouth. This James married Margaret Flint and had seven children and 11 grandchildren who were scattered over the whole country; Pittsfield, Mass., Walcottville, Conn., New York City, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Mo., San Francisco, Calif., Portland, Oregon and White Salmon, Washington.

One of the charts shows the ramification of this family as they migrated to the West Coast.

The eldest son of James, Judge James Bradford, Jr., stayed East, but the brothers, Daniel Flint Bradford, 1819-96, and Putnam Flint Bradford, born 1827, were among the founders of the far North West and settled on both sides of the Columbia River in the states of Washington and Oregon.

They were river men, running steamers on the Columbia River and it is in their honor that Bradford Island was named.

Putnam Flint Bradford married Helen Palmer and their son, Palmer Flint Bradford, was of White Salmon, Klickibut County, Washington. He married in 1880, Mary Malone, but of their descendants, if any, no record can be found.

The picture of Bradford Island was taken about Nov. 10, 1937, by C. I. Grimm, Head Engineer, North Pacific Division, U. S. Engineer Corps, No. 368, Bonneville Dam, Columbia River and comes to us through the courtesy of Mrs. N. A. Pearson, of Seattle, and the Oregon Historical Society.

A study of the map of Greater Seattle, Washington, shows us BRADFORD STREET extending between Charlestown and Andover Streets, and West Bradford Street going all the way to California Street. The Seattle Telephone Directory contains a large number of persons by the family name. The same applies to persons in Portland, Oregon. It is stated in numerous histories that the Far Northwest owes much to the energy and ambition of the brothers, Daniel and Putnam Bradford.

THE DISTAFF SIDE

IT IS ESTIMATED that there are some 25,000 persons living in America who are descendants of Governor William Bradford of Plymouth. No effort has been made by the editor to trace the ancestry of any person other than those named Bradford but a small number of descendants bearing other surnames are recorded in the MAYFLOWER LINEAGE CHARTS.

Among other descendants on the distaff side the following occur to the editor:-

General Tasker Howard Bliss, (of double descent) appointed 6 October 1917, Chief of Staff, World War I.

Miss Mabel Thorp Boardman, National Secretary, American Red Cross, decorated by the King of Sweden, 1909; Emperor of Japan, 1912; Italian Government with Gold Crown; French First Class Gold Medal of Gratitude; Queen Elizabeth Medal (Belgium); Serbian & Portuguese Red Cross Decorations.

William Bradford Browne, genealogist.

General Doolittle, hero of the first bombing of Tokyo is said to have Bradford blood in his veins.

Rear Admiral Philip Henry Cooper, 1844-1912.

Eugene Eleuthere duPont, Director, duPont de Nemours Company.

Frederic Russell Dolbeare, career diplomat, First Secretary, American Embassy, London.

Wilbur L. Cross, 4 term governor of Connecticut, died 5 October, 1948.

Rear Admiral Franklin Hanford, born 1844.

Miss Gertrude Fiske, Artist, Weston, Mass.

Reverend Ebenezer Fitch, first President of Williams College.

Carl Raymond Gray, born 1867, President of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Henry Gurdon Marquand, 1819-1912, President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, N. Y.

Nahum Mitchell, 1769-1853, Member of Congress and Chief Justice.

Edward Cushman Mitchell, President, Roger Williams College, Nashville, Tenn.

Reverend Hezekiah Ripley, D.D., Yale 1763.

Bradford Smith, author.

Frank B. Steel, First President of the Bradford Family Association, 1946. Secretary and Registrar, Sons of the American Revolution.

Wendell Bradford Terry, shot down over France while piloting a B-17 Bomber of the 305th Bomber Group and captured by the Germans. Lieutenant Regular Army, Air Corps, awarded the Purple Heart; and later resided with his family in Okinawa. His brother, Oscar Bradford Terry served in the S. W. Pacific, 3rd Marine Raider Battalion.

General Uriah Tracy, U. S. Senator.

Editor's note: The following is quoted from the TIMES (London, England) Tuesday, January 9, 1951:-

"Mrs. Amy Bradford, who died at Folkstone on Sunday at the age of 91, was the mother of four sons, two of whom won the V. C. (Victoria Cross) one the D. S. O. (Distinguished Service Order), and one the M. C. (Military Cross). A second M. C. was won by the youngest son as well as his V. C. All four fought in the First World War, and only the eldest, now Sir Thomas Bradford of Durham, survived, having been wounded and awarded the D. S. O. Three of the brothers served in the Durham Light Infantry and one in the Royal Navy.

"The second son, Lieutenant-Commander George Nicholson Bradford, was killed at Zebrugge on St. George's Day, 1918, his thirty-first birthday, in one of the bravest exploits of that memorable action. He was in command of the naval storming parties in IRIS II which could not anchor to the parapet of the mole because of the motion. A lieutenant who tried to scale a ladder without the ship being secured was killed on the parapet, and Lt.-Commander Bradford went to certain death by climbing a derrick and jumping on to the mole with the parapet anchor. He secured the ship and was immediately killed by machine-gun fire. His body fell into the sea and was not recovered. The V. C. was awarded posthumously.

"The third son, Lieutenant James Baker Bradford won the Military Cross in France and died of wounds on May 14, 1917 at the age of 27.

"The youngest of the brothers, Brigadier-General Roland Boys Bradford, on October 1, 1916, when serving as lieutenant saved the right flank of his brigade and of the division by an act of conspicuous bravery and leadership in attack, for which he was awarded the Victoria Cross.

"His battalion was in support when the situation of a leading battalion became critical and its commander wounded.

"Lieutenant Bradford asked permission to command the exposed battalion as well as his own, and by fearless energy under fire he rallied the attack, captured and defended the objective, and so secured the flank.

"At 25 he was the youngest brigadier-general in France. He was killed in action in France in November 1917.

"On more than one occasion Mrs. Bradford took her place at the Folkstone observance of Remembrance Day, wearing the two Victoria Crosses and a Military Cross."

The surviving son, Sir Thomas Andrews Bradford, Knight, was born in 1886 and now resides at Aden Cottage, Durham, England. He was created a knight in 1939.

BRADFORD GENEALOGIES

THE FIRST GENEALOGY of descendants of William Bradford of the MAYFLOWER was written in ink in a little note book by school master LEWIS BRADFORD of Plympton, Massachusetts, in the year 1830.

It was for his brother Daniel's family and is now in the collection of Mr. Gershom Bradford of Washington, D. C., and Duxbury, Mass.

Twenty years later the fourth volume of the REGISTER of the New England Historic Genealogical Society appeared, containing "A GENEALOGY OF THE BRADFORD FAMILY" by a descendant of Governor William, General G. M. Fessenden of Rhode Island. This has been the standard Bradford Family reference work ever since so far as the first six generations in America are concerned.

Some thirty or thirty-five years later HORACE STANDISH BRADFORD, Broker in Mining Stock, 61 Broadway, New York, N. Y., appeared on the scene. He sent out a general call throughout the nation addressed to postmasters for family information, and in the following years until his death in 1909, gathered a splendid store of records which are now in the vault of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, 9 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass., under the title "BRADFORD FAMILY." The reader is referred to that collection for data which the limitations of space have forced us to omit.

In 1899 appeared the 2nd edition of the ANCIENT LANDMARKS OF PLYMOUTH which contains a comprehensive Bradford Genealogy.

The next year Shepard published his "Descendants of Governor William Bradford Through His Son." During this same year, in Nashua, Iowa was published "DECENDANTS OF JAMES BRADFORD" who was a Mayflower descendant.

In 1929 and 1930 in the N. E. Register, Vols. 83 and 84 are to be found articles by Mr. William Bradford Browne on the early English lines. In 1930 also appeared a manuscript on the first six generations by Algernon Austin Aspinwall, deposited in the vault of the N. E. Society.

Two years later was published the MAYFLOWER INDEX, and in 1939 a corrected edition was gotten out.

In the year 1950 appeared a book under the title of "A History and Genealogy of the Bradford Family, 1575 - 1950" by Effie May Bradford Griffiths, R. N., and Charles Marion Bowers, (Canton, Ohio).

As this book goes to press we are informed that a genealogy of the first six generations of the Bradford family is expected to be published next year by Edwards Brothers, Ann Arbor, Michigan. We have therefore given but little space in our work to those earlier generations, concentrating our attention more on the living members of the family and their immediate progenitors.

"WELCOME ENGLISHMEN"

PLYMOUTH OF YESTERDAY

WHERE NOTHING DWELLS BUT BEASTS OF PREY, OR MEN AS FIERCE AND WILD AS THEY.
Old Hymn.

THE INDIAN NAME for the site of Plymouth was POCKANOKY. Six years before the Pilgrims' arrival an English sea captain landed there and kidnapped a member of the tribe, Squantum by name.

He was later sold for 20 pounds sterling as a slave in the Malaga Islands.

Rescued by the monks of that island he later visited Spain and found his way to the home of a Mr. Slaney in London. This gentleman was a member of the Newfoundland Company and so in 1619 Squantum was returned to his native land in Captain Derner's ship.

In the meantime, however, Squantum's whole tribe had been killed by the plague, in 1616-17. The neighboring tribe called the Massachusetts, were reduced from 3,000 fighting men to 50.

Johnson's WONDER WORKING PROVIDENCE describes the next scene:
"The Country of the Pockanoky was almost wholly deserted, in so much that the neighboring Indians did abandon these places for feare of Death, fleeing more West and by South.

"But by this means Christ not only made roome for his people to plant; but also tamed the hard and cruel Hearts of those barbarous Indians, in so much that half a handfull of His people landing not long after in Plimouth found little resistance.

"Now the Indians whose dwellings are most near the water-side appeared with their Bowes bent and Arrowes on the string, let fly their long shafts among the little Company.

"But the Lord otherwise disposed, for one Captaine Miles Standish having his fowling piece in a reddinesse by the Most High God, strook the stoutest Sachem among them on the right Arme, it being bent over his shoulder to reach an Arrowe forth his quiver, as their manner is to draw forth to fight.

'At this stroke they all fled with great swiftnesse through the Woods and Thickets."

Bradford writes of this incident as follows;
"Yet there was a lustie man (Indian) and no less valiente, stood behind a Tree within halfe a musket shot, and let his arrowes flie at them (the Pilgrims).

He was seen shoot 3 arrowes, which were all voyded. He stood three shot of a musket, till one taking full aime at him, made ye barke or splinters of ye Tree to fly about his Ears, after which he gave an extraordinary Shrike, and away they wente, all of them."

The Wonder Working Providence author further writes:

"An Indian did come among them (Pilgrims) at whose Speach they were aghast, he speaking in the English Language 'MUCH WELCOME ENGLISHMAN'".

And so we find the source of the title of this our book.

PLYMOUTH TODAY

LAND OF THE PILGRIMS PRIDE
LAND WHERE OUR FATHERS DIED OF THEE WE SING.

LET US START OUR PILGRIMAGE from the railroad station. We head toward the harbor which is only a short block away and turn to our right. Near the corner will be found the tourist information house, a free-standing small office, where a map of the town is presented to each visitor. Mentioning the name BRADFORD will bring forth much information.

Following down Water Street, also marked Harbor View Drive, we pass the yacht basin bordered on one side by the town wharf and on the other by that of the state. We learn that 30 years ago the ramshackle fishermen's wharfs were removed when the Commonwealth bought the harbor front and set it aside as a park. Incidentally there is a large car park here.

We now approach a peristyle which acts as a shelter for PLYMOUTH ROCK. It is a satisfactory piece of architecture, in granite, designed by McKim, Meade and White and is the gift of the Colonial Dames.

Before mounting the main hill we shall take a look at Bradford Street some four blocks further along leading from Union to Sandwich Street. At No. 158, Sandwich Street resides a family of Bradfords, resident through their ancestors, for 331 years. Mr. Edward Winslow Bradford resides here and he served at New Guinea, Cape Gloucester, Peleiu, and Okinawa. His brother was also in the service, World War II.

We now turn right two squares to Pilgrim Spring and proceed down the hill through the Brewster garden, viewing the statue of the Pilgrim Maiden presented by the National Society of New England Women.

Cole's Hill is small but contains many fine monuments. The large sarcophagus marking the formerly unmarked graves of the victims of the first winter, 1620, is somewhat marred by having about a quarter of the bronze letters pried away by souvenir hunters. Here also is the statue of Massasoit "FRIEND OF THE PILGRIMS," a very fine bronze by Cyrus Dallin.

Next we cross Carver Street and ascend Leyden Street to the traffic light at the corner of Court Street and Town Square, where, on the N.W. corner stood the home of Governor Bradford. Ascending town square, passing the Church of the Pilgrimage we turn right on School Street. A short distance brings us to the main entrance to Old Burial Hill. Gov. Bradford's grave is number 32 and in the year 1825 a marble monument was erected bearing inscriptions in English and Latin. Grave 33 is that of his son, Major William, whose headstone reads: "He lived long but still was doing good; And in his country's service lost much blood." The first Church at this burial ground has an arched portal copied from that at Austerfield where Governor Bradford was christened. On our return we shall stop at Pilgrim Hall where may be seen Governor Bradford's Bible, printed in Geneva, Switzerland in 1592.

WHAT WEALTH OF LEGEND, YEA, WHAT WEALTH OF LORE ABOUNDS ALONG THIS TRANQUIL PILGRIM SHORE.

BRADFORD FAMILY

IN THE NAME OF THE BRADFORD FAMILY in America the Editor takes this opportunity of expressing his grateful appreciation to the following persons who have so kindly contributed family information for the publication of "WELCOME ENGLISHMEN."

Many hands make light work, therefore the editor's task has been an easy one, as the hands have been many, and the spirit with which they worked, eager.
